

MOUNT SAINT VINCENT CERTIFICATE PROGRAMS

International Business and Economics - Global Communication & The Media

Attend classes in general, corporate and international communications or in international business and economics, as taught by professors of College of Mount Saint Vincent.

Courses are subject to availability. Students may choose from up to 9 different courses in each program as offered by the College of Mount Saint Vincent. A "core" of 3 courses will be available for each program in each college semester.

Students in Levels 107 to 112 may select a class from among available classes. The student will attend classes and be excused from a special interest class and/or other class depending on the schedule, in consultation with the Academic Director. Classwork and class participation will vary with the class chosen and by agreement with the professor of the class. There will be an English project assigned depending upon the student's interest and purpose of study, again, under the supervision of the Academic Director. The student will also meet with the Center Director to discuss progress and course satisfaction.
